

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An optical amplifier comprises a device substrate, a first waveguide embedded in the device substrate, and a plurality of lasers. The lasers are positioned to provide a first plurality of light beams substantially transverse to the first 5 waveguide.